

NSC BRIEFING CONFIDENTIAL 13 January 1955

CHINESE NATIONALIST POSITION

I. ChiCom attacks--air and sea--on ChiNat ships at Tachens (10 Jan) are heaviest yet staged. Result--Tachens command now without naval support. Virtually without air support, facing supply woes, and with one-third garrison green, Tachens presently more vulnerable to ChiCom assault than ever before.

A. Air assault (10 Jan their time) aimed disrupt rotation ChiNat garrison. Anchorage was filled with Nat ships--sole remaining DE assigned to islands, three LST's, two gunboats, several other vessels.

NAVY and DIA review(s) completed.

B. 65 to 100 ChiCom fighter and bomber sorties, raided for 7

hrs., hit all three LST's, plus DE. One LST, carrying ammo, set afire, believed total loss. Damage to other vessels lighter, but some 160

sailors wounded, 14 killed.

C. Raid caught Nats "flatfooted."

No alert, AA fire sporadic, ineffective. Requested air support from Formosa denied because "weather unfavorable."

D. After air attack, ships (except LST 202) put to sea. That night, 150-foot Nat gunboat intercepted by ChiCom torpedo boats, hit and abandoned. DE limped to Formosa; other vessels now at Nanchishan (90 mi. SW

- E. Shipping losses, vulnerability
Nat vessels will complicate supply of Tachens. Current levels adequate for 30-45 days.
Nationalist Navy wants remove guerrilla garrison (850) on Yushan, 35 miles NW Tachens; MAAG has advised Taipei to re-evaluate logistic problem in all offshore islands.
- F. Two minesweepers escorting junk to Yushan reportedly attacked by Communist vessels shortly after midnight on 13 Jan.
Results this battle not yet known.
- G. In "retaliation" small numbers
Nationalist bombers have raided Communist islands (Toumen and Tienao) north of Tachens. Only says raids are "counter-publicity measures," not effective military action.

II. MAAG reports no signs Communist invasion preparations, believes ChiComs will try destroy Nat naval forces, isolate Tachens.

A. Although ChiComs can overrun Tachens ~~at any time~~, we agree that early action unlikely.

Two main reasons:

1. 7th Fleet prepared demonstrate in next few days; past appearances
have quieted Communist activity, should do so again.
2. High winds, seas now
would make invasion

B. Next Tachen rotation due 22 Jan; expect raids then, or any time
when targets spotted.

III. Attacks may represent either effort soften Tachens in preparation assault, or effort make cost of holding islands unacceptable. In either case Nationalists will have problems of morale.

A. Garrison command, as result 10
Jan action, saw support routed,
requests for air support refused (not for first time), and vivid demonstration ChiCom capability disrupt re-enforcement.

1. May already wonder if Taipei regards islands
as expendable.
2. Morale may well sag in absence indication or belief US will help

3. Leaflet drops on Tachens
(11 Jan) show increasing ChiCom efforts induce local defection.

B. Chiang himself has hard decision;
conserve forces by withdrawal,
or gamble on last-minute US intervention.

C. Taipei apparently wrestling with problem now:

1. Chiang

[REDACTED] favoring

minimum commitment, no
reinforcements.

2. Defense Minister has asked Radford for inclusion offshore islands in Taipei Pact.

D. In addition island garrisons'
vulnerability to defection,

possibility of widespread subversion on Formosa is further,

although long-range, threat.

1. ChiCom propaganda aimed at causing defection Taiwan Nat officials sharply stepped up since July '54.
2. This propaganda is in form broadcasts, letters, leaflets from ChiCom leaders, former Nat leaders and troops, recent defectors.
3. Main theme this propaganda is that Nationalists have no future on Formosa, "glorious" future on mainland--standards offers include amnesty, cash, land, jobs.
4. To date, no significant results; but continuing

US NAVY DENIES REPORT OF DESTROYER CLASH WITH COMMUNIST PLANES

US Navy sources say there is no foundation for the report that a US destroyer fired on Communist Chinese planes in the vicinity of Nanchi island, southwest of the Tachens, on 10 January.

Reports appeared in the press, came from Chinese Nationalist newsmen riding on LST running from Tachen to Nanchi.

Pentagon says no US ships in area at time of reported incident. US officials on Taipei have also denied the reports.
